
YOUNG

This is a subtriangular point made from a thin flake that has been crudely knapped around the edges, the faces showing little or no sign of work. The bases and lateral edges are convex.

Distribution: North central Texas and southern Oklahoma, and the central Gulf coast. Period: Late Prehistoric. Sites: Kyle; Smith Rockshelter; Webb Island; Live Oak Point

